Who We Are

For more than 80 years, ANDRUS has been a proud provider of programs and services for children and families throughout Westchester County and the tri-state area. Every year, we reach over 2,500 children and families with a broad spectrum of preventive and restorative services for families and their children from birth through adolescence.

In remaining true to John Andrus's vision, our Board and staff are committed to giving every child the best possible opportunity for a safe and fulfilling life by providing resources to improve their health and resilience. We thank you for your interest and hope that you will be in touch to learn more about our work.

What We Do

Over the years, ANDRUS has evolved into a leading provider and innovator of services for families and children. We understand that the major challenges that families face require comprehensive solutions, and our work goes beyond the provision of direct care services to include research and evaluation, development of new models of care, professional teaching and training, and influence on public policy.

We provide residential treatment through our Campus-Based Programs, helping children and families build brighter futures by providing a safe environment where children can learn to manage their emotions and understand and deal with loss.

We have extended the range of our Community-Based initiatives through partnerships with other organizations, including early childhood centers, public schools, homeless housing programs and mental health clinics across the New York Metropolitan area and beyond.

For over 75 years the primary aim of ANDRUS' programs has been to ensure that the children we serve have the opportunity to grow up happy, healthy and strong. We do this by providing direct individual child and family intervention, supporting parents and caregivers, and helping children and their families build on their unique strengths while managing their particular challenges.

The Andrus Center for Learning and Innovation (ACLI) is our hub for facilitating the exchange of ideas that will improve the care of children in ANDRUS programs, as well as to share the knowledge we have acquired in over 80 years in the field of mental health and child welfare.

The Sanctuary Institute is the division of ANDRUS providing training and consultation services to organizations that work with vulnerable adults, children and families, with the goal of helping an agency's leaders reclaim a culture of hope and innovation.

Andrus Center for Learning and Innovation (ACLI)

The Andrus Center for Learning and Innovation (ACLI) is our hub for facilitating a dialogue of ideas between all parties who are concerned with mental health and social service efforts on behalf of vulnerable children and families, including organizational and individual practitioners, funders, policy makers, researchers, and the public. The Andrus Center for Learning and Innovation serves not only to improve the care of children in ANDRUS programs, but also to share with others the knowledge we have acquired after 80 years in the field of mental health and child welfare.

ACLI challenges our entire organization to continue moving forward with cutting edge work and practices while aggressively promoting ANDRUS successes to others in our field and assuring that we remain a top-tier service organization. ACLI's goal are:

- To share the depth and breadth of knowledge Andrus has acquired after 80 years in the field of mental health and child welfare; children and families;
- To provide a forum where information pertaining to mental health and child welfare is gathered, shared and disseminated; and,
- To contribute to the worldwide knowledge base of mental health and child welfare for vulnerable children and families.

The five core functions of the Andrus Center for Learning and Innovation are:

1. Professional Training. We provide professional training to staff. Professional training is provided to individuals and organizations with groups.
2. Program Evaluation. We evaluate programs in organizations in the field of mental health and child welfare. In addition, we also provide training in the use of trauma treatment models.
3. Scholarships. We provide scholarships for operational expenses of individuals from diverse cultures, backgrounds and families.
4. Symposiums. We provide symposiums for the purpose of sharing knowledge and ideas.
